1. Introduction

The phenomena of corruption and related offences is one of the main threats to the healthy functioning of the economy and the development of society. Fighting it requires the combined efforts of all sectors of society, including the insurance sector, to promote a culture of integrity.

The growing concerns raised by these practices have led to the need to evolve from more reactive approaches to a preventive and risk-based paradigm to increase the effectiveness of their prevention.

The fight against corruption must, thus, be the responsibility of all economic sectors, based on a new set of preventive duties and methodologies that cut across organizations.

Fidelidade Group's activity is conducted under strict principles of compliance with the law and its internal regulations, and following the highest standards of ethics, responsibility, transparency, rigor, and professionalism.

In this context, Fidelidade Group's approach to any signs or displays of corruption or related offences is one of zero tolerance, requiring its employees to refrain from conducting any act of this nature.

The reputation and trust placed in Fidelidade Group companies by their clients, suppliers, partners, shareholders, and the society, largely depends on the ethical and socially responsible behavior of all the Group's managers and employees.

2. Purpose and scope of the Plan

The purpose of this Plan is to implement Fidelidade Group's commitment to proactively fight and prevent all forms of corruption, by defining principles and guidelines for preventing these practices.

The Plan for the Prevention of Risks of Corruption and Related Offences (Plano de Prevenção de Riscos de Corrupção e Infrações Conexas) further develops and embodies the principles and rules of conduct established by Fidelidade Group, both in its Code of Ethics and Conduct (Código de Ética e Conduta) and in its Anti-Bribery and Corruption Policy (Política Antisuborno e Anticorrupção), which are internal regulations that bind all employees regardless of their function, relationship or place of work.

This Plan is also aligned with the principles of other internal regulations of the Fidelidade Group, in particular, the Compliance Policy (Política de Compliance), the Delegation of Powers Regulation (Norma de Delegação de Competências), the Rules Applicable to the Purchase of Goods and Services (Regras Aplicáveis à Aquisição de Bens e Serviços), the Policy on Preventing Money Laundering and Combating the Financing of Terrorism (Política de Prevenção do Branqueamento de Capitais e Combate ao Financiamento do Terrorismo) and the Policy for the Prevention, Detection and Reporting of Insurance Fraud (Política de Prevenção, Detecção e Reporte de Situações de Fraude nos Seguros).

The Plan for the Prevention of Risks of Corruption and Related Offences (Plano de Prevenção de Riscos de Corrupção e Infrações Conexas) applies to all the companies included in Fidelidade Group in Portugal, with the exception of those which belong to Luz Saúde Group.

As well as applying to all employees of Fidelidade Group, regardless of their employment relationship, including the Members of the Governing Bodies, this Plan also applies to the various stakeholders who are directly or indirectly involved in the activities of Fidelidade Group.

3. Definitions

Corruption is understood as the abuse of a power or function to benefit a third party, against the payment of a sum or other type of advantage ¹.

The crime of corruption always implies the combination of four elements:

- An action or omission;
- the commission of a lawful or unlawful act;

¹ Resolution of the Council of Ministers (Resolução do Conselho de Ministros) no. 37/2021, of 6 April, approving the National Anti-Corruption Strategy 2020-2024.

- in return for an undue advantage;
- benefiting him or herself or a third party appointed by him or her.

The following are considered acts of corruption:

- The promise, offering or giving, directly or indirectly, of an undue advantage of a pecuniary or non-pecuniary nature to a person in order that he/she performs or refrains from performing an act in the exercise of his/her functions;
- The solicitation or acceptance, directly or indirectly, of an undue advantage of a pecuniary or non-pecuniary nature by a person for him/her to perform or refrain from performing an act in the exercise of his/her functions.

A bribe is the offer, promise, gift, acceptance, or request of an advantage as an inducement for an action that is illegal, ethically incorrect or a breach of trust. These types of incentives can take the form of gifts, loans, fees, rewards, or other benefits.

Trading in influence is the behavior of anyone who, by him or herself or through an intermediary, with his or her consent or ratification, solicits or accepts, for him or herself or for a third party, a pecuniary or non-pecuniary advantage, or the promise thereof, in order to abuse his/her influence, be it real or alleged, with any public entity.

Facilitation payment refers to a payment or any other compensation promised or offered to a public official, intended to secure the performance, or hasten a course of action which that public official had a legal duty to perform.

Fidelidade Group defines improper conduct as that which, in addition to others, incorporates the following behaviors:

- Offering, promising, giving, asking, agreeing to receive, or accepting a bribe, including facilitating a payment;
- Offering or receiving gifts that could affect future or existing business;
- Donating or extending sponsorship as a way of obtaining or keeping an illicit advantage for the benefit of the company itself or one of its employees;
- Establish or keep business relationships with the different stakeholders of the Fidelidade Group, whilst being aware that they do not comply with the principles and rules contained in the Fidelidade Group's Code of Ethics and Conduct (Código de Ética e Conduta);
- Intervene in the assessment and business decision-making, on the professional situation of employees and on procedures for the acquisition of goods and services, where there is a risk of conflicts of interest or of conducting activities that may lead to such conflicts;

- Supplying any kind of monetary or financial support to political parties or related entities.

The criminal sanctions associated with acts of corruption and related offences are, in addition to those provided for in the Penal Code, namely for the crimes of active corruption, passive corruption, undue receipt of an advantage, embezzlement, economic participation in business, concussion, abuse of power, prevarication, influence peddling and money laundering, those provided for in the legal regime for 'Anti-economic Offences and Offences against Public Health' for the crimes of fraud in obtaining a subsidy or grant, embezzlement of a subsidy, grant or credit and fraud in obtaining credit, and also those provided for in the 'Criminal Regime for Corruption in International Trade and the Private Sector' for the crimes of active corruption to the detriment of international trade, passive corruption in the private sector and active corruption in the private sector.

4. Risk management procedures for bribery, corruption, and related offences

Within the scope of its risk management and internal control systems, Fidelidade Group has a set of mechanisms and procedures aimed at preventing, detecting and/or mitigating the possible effects of the risks to which it is exposed.

The Plan for the Prevention of Corruption Risks and Related Infractions (Plano de Prevenção de Riscos de Corrupção e Infrações Conexas) is part of the framework of Compliance Risk Management supported in the Group's Compliance Policy, which includes, among others, the risks of bribery and corruption.

This Plan includes the following main activities:

4.1. Risk identification

The Compliance Division (Direção de Compliance) identifies the risks of bribery and corruption and related offences to which the Group is exposed at least once a year, in cooperation with the various business and support divisions of Fidelidade Group companies, and link them with the existing macro-processes, processes and sub-processes in place in Fidelidade Group to tackle operational risk.

The nature of each of the processes and activities carried out by Fidelidade Group, the applicable legislation and regulations, the rules of conduct and those governing relations with clients and related parties as well as the ethical principles are, among other things, key factors in identifying the areas of activity of the Fidelidade Group that are exposed to the risk of acts of corruption and related offences.

Thus, the process of identifying bribery and corruption risks:

- By considering the nature and characteristics of the products, services, processes, systems, structural bodies, business segments and geographies in which the Group operates, enables the identification of potential events associated with acts of bribery and corruption with a materially relevant impact;
- Enables the identification of emerging risks and the review of existing ones;
- Allows the various risks identified to be prioritized and matched to the products, activities, processes, or systems that are exposed to them.

4.2. Risk assessment

It is the Compliance Division's duty to assess the probability of occurrence and the respective impact with regards to each category of bribery and corruption risks at least once a year, in cooperation with the various business and support divisions of the companies within Fidelidade Group.

The process of assessing the risks of bribery and corruption – Anti-Bribery and Corruption (ABC) Compliance Risk Assessment – is based on mainly qualitative analyses, with the risks previously identified in each process/set of processes being assessed in terms of probability and impact, as per the following table:

ABC – Compliance Risk Assessment
Classification - Level	Probability of Occurrence How often does the risk occur?	Estimated impact What are the consequences?
4. Critical	Highly likely	Very Relevant
3. High	Likely	Relevant
2. Moderate	Moderate	Moderate
1. Low	Rarely or never	None or minimum

By combining the assessment of the probability of occurrence and the estimated impact, the exposure (assessment) to the risk is determined according to the following matrix:

4.3. Risk mitigation

Once the risks associated with bribery and corruption have been identified and assessed, the prevention and mitigation measures in place within the Fidelidade Group are identified and documented.

In addition to these preventive and mitigation measures, Fidelidade Group, within the scope of its general internal control environment, has other measures of a cross-sectional nature that contribute significantly to mitigating the risks of bribery and corruption:

- Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption Policy (Política Antisuborno e Anticorrupção);
- Policy on Preventing Money Laundering and Combating the Financing of Terrorism (Política de Prevenção de Branqueamento de Capitais e Financiamento do Terrorismo);
- Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Prevention Manual (Manual de Prevenção de Branqueamento de Capitais e Financiamento do Terrorismo);
- Reporting of Irregularities Policy (Política de Comunicação de Irregularidades).
- Third party Due Diligence manual (Manual de Due Diligence de terceiros);
- Ongoing training programs, which include topics related to corruption prevention, combating money laundering and terrorist financing, and the Code of Ethics and Conduct (Código Ética e de Conduta);
- Segregation of duties and monitoring of conflicts of interest;
- Regulations applicable to all Fidelidade Group employees, namely:
 - a) Code of Ethics and Conduct (Código de Ética e Conduta)
 - b) Compliance Policy (Política de Compliance);
 - c) Policy for the Prevention, Detection and Reporting of Fraud Situations in Insurance (Política de Prevenção, Detecção e Reporte de Situações de Fraude nos Seguros).

4.4. Risk reporting

- a) Mid-term regulatory report: an assessment report is prepared in October each year about the situations identified as high or maximum risk;
- b) Annual regulatory report: in April of the following year, a report is prepared which must include a quantification of the degree of implementation of the preventive and corrective measures identified, as well as a forecast of their full implementation.

5. Roles and responsibilities

The Regulatory Compliance Officer (Responsável pelo Cumprimento Normativo) will be responsible for the execution, control and review of the Corruption Risk Prevention Plan and Related Violations (Plano de Prevenção de Riscos de Corrupção e Infrações Conexas).

The Compliance Division (Direção de Compliance) supports the Regulatory Compliance Officer (Responsável pelo Cumprimento Normativo) in the exercise of its functions as, at all times, they are defined in the current legislation and internal regulations. This support is particularly relevant with regard to the execution of the processes for managing the risks of bribery and corruption and related infractions provided for in this Plan, in carrying out internal training programs on the prevention of bribery and corruption risks and in reviewing the Code of Ethics and Conduct (Código de Ética e Conduta) and the internal rules that develop and implement it.

The various organizational bodies of the Fidelidade Group companies are responsible, together with the Compliance Division (Direção de Compliance), for identifying and assessing the risks of bribery and corruption associated with their activities, as well as for implementing the appropriate mitigation measures to deal with those risks and the corrective actions necessary to resolve deficiencies in the internal control system.

6. Review and Update

The Plan for the Prevention of Corruption Risks and Related Infractions (Plano de Prevenção de Riscos de Corrupção e Infrações Conexas) will be reviewed every three years or whenever appropriate due to changes in the attributions, organizational or corporate structure of Fidelidade Group companies included in the scope of this Plan and, in particular, when justified by changes in legislation and regulations.

The Regulatory Compliance Officer, with the support of the Compliance Division (Direção de Compliance), is responsible for reviewing and updating this Policy and submitting it to the Executive Committee for approval.

7. Disclosure

In addition to the internal disclosure through the intranet of Fidelidade Group companies, the Risk Prevention Plan for Corruption and Related Infractions (Plano de Prevenção de Riscos de Corrupção e Infrações Conexas) will be disclosed externally through the websites of those companies.

The reports mentioned in paragraph 4.4 of this Plan will be made public, once approved by the Executive Committee, using the same resources.

The Plan, its revisions and reports will be disclosed no later than 10 days after being approved by the Executive Committee.
